New Nadina Provides Corporate Update

New Nadina Explorations Limited, (the “Company”) reports that, effective August 23, 2019, the Directors have approved a reorganization of its Board of Directors and management and has agreed to join the Manex Resource Group (“Manex”). As part of the terms of the Manex relationship Mr. Lawrence Page, Q.C. will become a Director and Chairman of the Board of Directors, Mr. Joseph A. Kizis Jr., P. Geo., will become a Director and President and Mr. Fred Sveinson, P. Eng. will become a Director and Senior Mining Consultant. John Jewitt and Peter Cooper will resign from the Board of Directors with Courtney Shearer, Chairman of the Guidance Committee, and Killian Ruby, CFO remaining as Directors.

The Company would like to thank Helen Jewitt, Office Manager, Anthony Jewitt (former CFO), Peter Cooper and John Jewitt for their contributions and look forward to having Anthony Jewitt, Peter Cooper and John Jewitt continue as advisors to the Company.

The Company is carefully reviewing the significant amount of work completed to date and will shortly announce proposed exploration and development plans for the Silver Queen gold, silver property in B. C. and the Monument diamond property in the North West Territories. The Silver Queen property hosts a series of high-grade, precious and base-metal veins related to a buried porphyry system, which was only recently discovered and has been only partially delineated. A recent resource estimate has been published with the full report to be released before month end. New management looks forward to applying their expertise with these types of deposits to the Silver Queen property.
